

For the first time it was found that snake venom neurotoxins and alpha-conotoxin inhibited currents induced by gamma-aminobutyric acid in GABA(A) receptors heterologously expressed in Xenopus oocytes

Inhibition of currents induced by gamma-aminobutyric acid in GABA(A) receptors by snake neurotoxins

Molecular model for alpha-cobratoxin binding to GABA(A) receptor